Foreign Language Substitution Courses

Below is a list of course combinations that are acceptable for students approved to complete their foreign language distribution through substitution. A student must complete two courses, and these courses must be within the same combination. These two courses cannot simultaneously fulfill other general distribution requirements, but they may be used toward major and minor requirements and/or toward the sophomore or junior writing intensive requirement.

Please be aware that some courses have prerequisites. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that those prerequisites have been met before enrolling in the course. Students must submit requests to count Special Topics courses for substitution to the Chair of the Department of Modern Languages.
