

WASHINGTON COLLEGE POLICIES

REDUCTION IN WORK FORCE (RIF) POLICY

Please note: This policy applies to all staff employees, excluding staff members whose positions are 100% grant funded.

Purpose

Washington College highly values the contributions of its employees and attempts to provide continuous, regular employment. In the event it becomes necessary for the College to eliminate positions because of financial constraints, programmatic considerations, outsourcing (resulting in loss of employment), or other circumstances, the Reduction in Force (RIF) policy sets forth criteria and procedures to guide the fair and equitable treatment of regular full and part time employees.

Criteria

When reductions in force are necessary, position eliminations will be based on:

1. Relevant skills needed in order for the College to fulfill its mission; and
2. Employee qualifications and employment record, including any disciplinary actions. Relative seniority (years of service at Washington College) will be considered only if employee qualifications and employment records are equivalent.

Notice Period

An eligible employee whose position is being eliminated as a result of a reduction in force will receive a notice period (the “Notice Period”) which is equal to one week of regular pay for each year of continuous service in a budgeted position. The minimum Notice Period will be four weeks at regular pay and benefits. Pay during or in lieu of the Notice Period will be calculated based upon the employee’s regular rate of pay as of the beginning of the Notice Period. At the College’s discretion, the employee may not be required to work during the Notice Period.

Affected employees are encouraged to apply for available positions at the College for which they are qualified during the Notice Period. Human Resources will be available to advise and assist employees regarding job search techniques, resume preparation, interview skills, etc.

Eligibility

An employee whose position is eliminated as a result of a RIF is eligible to receive the notice described above and the benefits described below, as of the effective date of separation, if the employee:

- Holds a regular budgeted position of at least 17.5 hours per week or more;

- Has at least one full year of continuous service immediately prior to the RIF;
- Is an active employee or on an authorized leave of absence (such as FMLA);
- Has maintained employment with the College throughout the Notice Period; and
- Has met any other eligibility requirements established by the College.

An employee is not eligible for the notice and benefits under this policy if he/she is discharged for cause, is released for unsatisfactory performance, voluntarily resigns, is approved for long term disability, or is offered other employment at the College, including employment by a new or existing vendor of the College (in the case of outsourcing or other transition of employment to a vendor).

If an affected full-time employee is offered only a part-time position at the College, the notice and benefits described in this policy will be pro-rated accordingly.

If an affected employee is only able to secure a temporary position at the College, the employee will be eligible for the notice and benefits provided in this policy at the end of that temporary position if the employee has not been offered a regular position with the College (or a new or existing vendor of the College).
